The best way to book these activities is online via Klook.

Online prices used to be inflated, but that's no longer the case. Klook now offers cheap prices that are on par with local rates.

Tour the Island Like a Boss in a Helicopter

BORACAY HELICOPTER RIDE (Philippines) - Unique

Play the video to see the beauty of Boracay from above

With this helicopter tour you get to experience the ultimate aerial view of Boracay, flying around the entire island to get views of its different beaches and surrounding islands.

If you've never experienced flying in a helicopter before, this is a chance to do so at a surprisingly affordable rate (the rate surprised me at least).

ARIEL'S POINT - CLIFF JUMPING PARADISE - BORA.

Ariel's Point is a small rocky island 30 minutes from Boracay with 5 diving boards, ranging from 3 to 15 meters.

The challenge of cliff diving combined with the natural environment, the social setting, unlimited drinks and a BBQ buffet make it one of Boracay's most popular things to do.

It's a day trip and the use of activity equipment such as snorkeling gear, stand up paddleboards and kayaks is included. Book it on Klook...

I recommend the group tour if you want to make new friends, and the private tour if you want to be in control of which places you visit, and how long you stay at each.

The activity includes 10 free shooters, club entrance fees and a 10% discount + drink specials at every stop.

There are many add-on activities to choose from, such as river tubing, waterfall exploration, mountain biking and more.

Go Helmet Diving and Find Nemo

Helmet Diving in Boracay Island, Malay, Aklan

Play the video to find Nemo, he's out there 😊

Helmet diving is the easiest way to enjoy the underwater world of Boracay. No swimming ability or diving knowledge is required. Just put the helmet on and you're ready to go.

Once you're down under you'll be surprised at how tame the fish are, I know I was. They're not scared of you, and you can feed them too. Your guide will also take underwater pictures of you and your friends which you can take home as a fun reminder of the activity.

The zipline ride takes about 3 minutes. After that you'll travel back up to your original position in a cable car. That ride takes 15 to 20 minutes, so on the way back you'll have time to enjoy the view in a more relaxing setting.

See Boracay from Above on Mount Luho

Mount Luho is the highest point in Boracay where you have an unobstructed 360 degrees view of the whole island.

You can get there either via a tricycle ride or via the ATV driving activity. I recommend the former because the ATV driving route isn't very exciting. A round trip tricycle ride costs ₱300 (~USD $6), and the entrance fee at the Mount Luho platform is ₱120 (~USD $2.50).

Visit Willy's Rock

Willy's Rock is Boracay's number 1 symbolic landmark and a popular spot to take pictures and watch the sunset. It's located in the middle of Station 1.

The water up to a few hundred meters south of the rock becomes very shallow during low tide, resulting in a large area with a very thin film of water. It's beautiful to walk through and will leave you in awe on a good day.

Station 2. So if you want to experience a more quiet romantic sunset, I recommend you visit either the north of Station 1 or the south of Station 3. Both are relatively quiet areas.

Other good places to watch the sunset are Puka Beach, and while sailing on a paraw sailboat. Puka Beach is a good place to watch the sunset because while on White Beach sunset is the busiest time, on Puka Beach it's the quietest time.

For a more detailed impression of the sunset see The Insanely Beautiful Sunsets of Boracay by Adventurous Miriam.

In Short

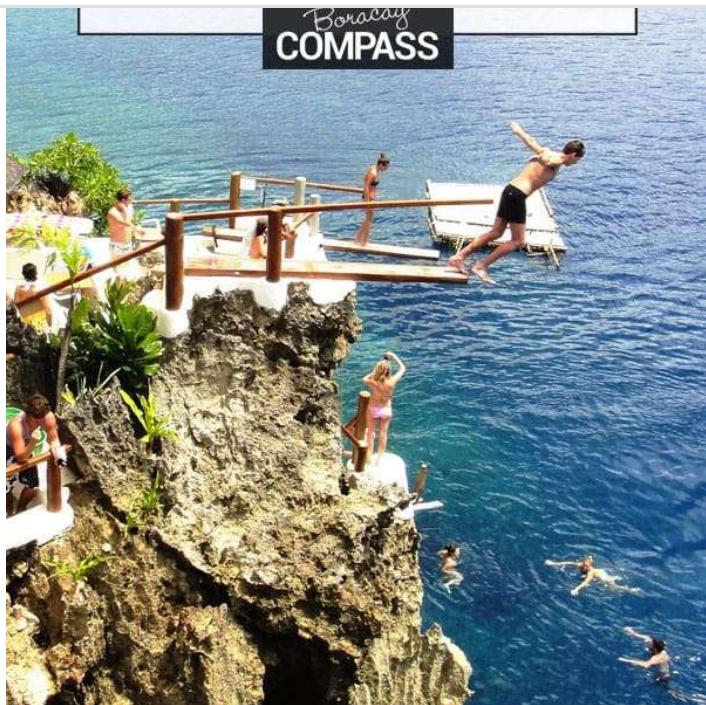

As you can see, there's a large variety of things to do in Boracay, and there's something for every budget and personality. Whether you want to relax on the beach, go on an adventure or party and socialize, you can find things to do that fit your mood and style.

Hope that helped you build out an awesome itinerary.
Enjoy! 😊
